Anthony Davis

New Orleans Pelicans Center

Davis raised his game to an MVP level after teammate DeMarcus Cousins went down with an Achilles injury; Davis became the first player to post at least 2,000 points, 800 rebounds, 150 blocks and 100 steals in a season since David Robinson in 1995-96. The Pelicans big man now is eligible to receive a supermax five-year, $230 million extension, starting in the summer of 2019, by earning All-NBA status, according to ESPN's Bobby Marks. Such an extension would be the largest contract in NBA history.

Damian Lillard

Portland Trailblazers Point Guard

Lillard was the first Portland player to finish fourth in scoring since Clyde Drexler did so in 1991-92. Lillard averaged 26.9 points, 6.6 assists and 4.5 rebounds this season and will need to earn a spot on one of the three All-NBA teams in 2018-19 to be supermax eligible in the summer of 2019.
